

SPIRITUAL CHALLENGE TODAY

Having the privilege of living on a planet such as Earth we should feel very wealthy, we should appreciate the extreme abundance we are being provided with by this amazing cosmic body, who is our Mother Gaia. This planet is our habitat, and instead of celebrating this beautiful and rich home and all the services Gaia provides for us, we are immersed in the destruction of this place, in despoiling Nature, which is our shelter and a source of our medicinal power and wellbeing. Are we sane as a civilisation? It is interesting how many times we have heard this question, and the truth is that there is no reasonable answer or explanation of this anti-survival behaviour we are involved in. Are we really so undeveloped not to see the danger? Is this behaviour an unintentional madness? Or the problem lies somewhere else, in a place we do not suspect even exists?

For some people, those who are more aware and have been awakened, it is difficult not to see that life on our planet has been carefully controlled for many, many years. And we, the Gaians, legitimate children of Gaia and citizens of the planet Earth, know very little about it. We have been controlled from the day of our birth in order to live and perform in a system not of our design or choice. This has been a sinister set up by the "CONTROLLERS" of our lives, which worked largely unimpeded until now. The time has finally come to wake up from indoctrination, manipulation and from the inferior role we have been assigned to in this particular planetary and cosmic drama.

WHO ARE THE CONTROLLERS?

The game of control has been very aptly described by Machiavelli, whose work The Prince has continued to enjoy great popularity in certain circles for half a millennium. It is very interesting to note, that the book was conceived and written in Italy, then the very centre of religious power on Earth. History of Roman Catholic Church, Vatican and many religious developments in Europe, e.g. schism in the Church and the following reformation, have all been influenced by the relentless struggle for power within the Church and outside, in the ranks of the ruling secular elites.

People who want to be in control of lives of others feel that it is their right to do so. Why? Because they feel they are more knowledgeable and have more power, so they can do what they please. Many leaders of groups such as gangs, political parties, corporations, religious institutions, military units and greater military establishments, etc., fit very well into the role of a controller. Controllers can be self-made or appointed by an even more powerful “umbrella” body such as international groups of control, which have come to exist on the world scene in the last several hundred years. Our known history of humanity can be depicted as a history of struggle for power. And as far as we understand, various attempts to control and the actual control of our civilization continue unabated till today and most likely the work of the controllers will continue beyond the timelines of our contemporary lives.

With the opening of gates of knowledge, floods of information have been reaching us in recent years. Today we know more about history of our planet than ever before. Increasingly we can fill the gaps of knowledge on many subjects; we even face new subjects, for example, the existence of secret US government colonies on the planet Mars. How does this new situation influence our perception of reality? New information has allowed enlightened people to comprehend the gravity of our predicament as a human species. We had to realise the depth of cynicism, desire to control, involvement in most evil deeds by the controllers and people whom they had contracted. And the name of this game is to gain control and power over our planet Earth. Our understanding is that there are a number of extraterrestrial civilisations, who come here in the role of controllers, each having perhaps slightly different perspective on how they propose to “help” (meaning – control) in the affairs of human beings, to suit their respective agendas.

Luckily, in this particular scenario of reality, there exist universal rules of game or conduct, which secured our survival as a species and prevented us from being overtly assailed by other more aggressive and in some ways more primitive (at least spiritually) species. So, on the one hand, today we should feel very lucky that we continue our existence in this 3-D reality, on the other hand, we need to realise that we have a very important job to do - we must deepen our comprehension of the world around us. From the position of being unaware of the danger to our existence, we must now extend our conception of the world beyond our present conventional knowledge and wisdom, that is, of course, if we want to create our reality instead of just observing it materialising in front of us.

We must acknowledge now that we live in an intelligent universe, full of sentient beings, some of whom visit our world and have stated claims of various kinds regarding this coveted piece of real estate, which our planet is. As it happens, the powers, which currently control our human civilization, prefer our citizens not to know the truth; they prefer to keep Gaians occupied with the reality created for them by the existing system here, so that people continue producing “goods”, selling and buying them, at the same time increasing the wealth of those who feel they need to be in control of our affairs. This status quo will continue until such time when the human beings realise the depth of injustice, they have been subjected to, and reject it. Hopefully, it has become clear by now why secrecy is essential for continuing the exploitation of humanity.

Into this scenario comes transhumanism, which is a technological intervention into human abilities, including electronic implants and various nanotechnology interventions into human brain and body. The purpose here is to expand human abilities to process information (making the brain faster, for example) and make decisions, to sense any perceived threat and flight or defend himself or herself, and (let us not forget about these “improvements”) to obey orders given to a recipient of such technological adjustments. All this is done, of course, to increase “powers” of a human being. There is also a plethora of new techniques which are being taught in special schools for talented, mostly young people, such as increasing one’s intuitional capacity, increasing of the range of sensing abilities, remote viewing, reading thoughts of others and other expanded mind techniques. Again, such expanded abilities and talents are being cultivated for the use in the service of the controllers. Transhumanism has been developing steadily on the margins of our life since at least the Second World War. Many aspects of this discipline, not least the financing, have been kept secret and the society has been slowly learning about the new developments when these were considered safe to be released. Evidently, we do not know the entire truth about this program and, most likely, we never will.

Recent reports of the whistleblowers (who started coming out in increasing numbers) describe these programs in great details, not leaving room for any doubts that practices like have been taking place. They also solidify our conviction by providing facts of how we have been continually controlled by various races of extraterrestrials, which are apparently more intelligent and more powerful than our human race is in this 3-D reality.

Individual people, who have been employed in all the controllers’ programs, including transhumanism, have often been sold (or otherwise made available) to those programs as children, who did not know the ultimate agenda of their trainers. Many the so-called blue blood families have been participating in those programs for generations, supplying their offspring for training; other participants are being collected worldwide in many different programs, which involve IQ and EQ (emotional intelligence quotient) testing and subsequent clandestine sponsorships and training. As adults, the trainees experience various levels of unease knowing to which ends their expanded skills are being used, which in the majority of cases is not for the benefit of our human civilization. Sometimes their conscience brings them back to the right side of the divide. However, they always pay a steep price for being in such positions in life.

When we reflect on the life of our civilization in the last five thousand years, we see that war and war-like attitudes have been encouraged by manipulators in every age. It is obviously happening again today, where to the amazement of the peace loving majority of people on the planet, conflicts in many places on Earth are continuing and there is no sign of improvement. These wars, whether in the Middle East, Africa, Americas or anywhere else in the world show on the one hand how crude and unsophisticated (from the spiritual perspective) the ruling class leaders are, and, on the other hand, how devious and evil they are, considering their ill intentions or them serving their higher masters, who are evil themselves.

It is a fact that we, the people and rightful citizens of this planet, have been awakening into this current era of “dog eats dog” reality, which has been created for us here on Earth by unscrupulous people working on behalf of some higher entities, who do not regard us as equals. And it has to be said that we have been betrayed by people who worship power, want power or want to be on the side of power. If their assignments mean betrayal, blackmail, manipulation, evil acts, killing, etc., it does not put those people off; they know the rules of game in this amoral environment – everything goes! Their survival and the increase of their power is their trophy.

In the third dimension we live in, the empires rule, the power of the muscle rules, the power of weaponry rules, the physically stronger person rules, the richer financially person controls, and the bully bullies; in other words, we are living in an anti-spiritual universe. If any notion is made of religion and spirituality, it mostly happens for the purpose of control and manipulation, because in an antichrist dimension, as a rule, the authentic goodness does not exist in positions of power. Be aware then of the false religious figures or representatives of governments or global organisations and their smooth words. Our natural endowments of trust and goodness are being taken advantage of in a bizarre and twisted game of the controllers.

SPIRITUAL FUTURE FOR HUMANITY

How in this fallen dimension and environment true spiritual future is possible for us? It appears that the forces of control are as strong as ever; that every young generation is brought up in the conviction that such is the order of things, and most people die at old age firmly believing that this is our reality and that there is no other.

As always in situations like that, not allowing ourselves to feel oppressed, we need to step back and try to develop a different perspective or, better still, a number of perspectives. If we find ourselves caught up in the middle of a labyrinth, it is too hard to find a solution, a way out. We need to develop a “bird’s eye view” on the whole situation, we need a different perspective. Spiritual knowledge which exists in our contemporary world can provide such a different perspective. This spiritual knowledge has not been imparted by Church or any religious authority existing in today’s world. We are talking about a spiritual knowledge that exists in the world eternally, it has always existed and it will always be available to people, who find themselves attuned to the subtle vibrations and subtle energies, this knowledge imparts onto the world.

Spiritual energy is the most subtle of energies informing and directing the lives of human beings. It is difficult to detect, certainly there are no instruments to measure it, yet, we can recognize a spiritual person by their conduct, by choices they make in life. In the overall picture of the entire universe, there are two different kinds of energy informing people’s intentions and behaviour: there is an attitude of giving, kindness, generosity of spirit, and there is an attitude of greed, neediness, control and striving for power. In the physical universe, we live at this time, we see people who are definitely driven by one of those two streams of leading energies, and then we also know that there are a lot of other people, who seem to be confused, so their energies are drifting from one stream to the other.

Considering the accounts of many enlightened people in our world (contemporary and those who have passed away but left their mark on the collective spiritual consciousness), the universe is an enormous spiritual River of Life that is returning slowly to the Source. It is returning to the Source because it is attracted to it; it is in agreement with the universal life Source’s fundamental intentions and functions:

- life creation, manifested as Life,
- attraction, manifested as Love, relationships and creativity,
- usage of intelligence, manifested as Light and knowledge,
- intention, manifested as God’s Will,
- spiritual intuiting, manifested as higher spiritual discerning and understanding.

The flow of the Spiritual River of life can never be interrupted; it is so majestic, so powerful and overwhelming. But the flow of the universal River of Life has, from time to time, been marginally disturbed by a phenomenon comparable to eddy currents, which are often formed on the edges of rivers. In such places, sometimes stagnant, sometimes flowing backward or cross-current, all the ingredients for life exist in a separation from the main stream of the river. And our civilization, sadly, is placed in such a place of the universal River of Life, which is prone to experiencing perturbations of eddy currents or to stagnation and separation. Our solar system is positioned on the margins and far away from the centre of our Milky Way Galaxy.

Spiritual science of all ages placed more evolved civilisations closer to the centre of galaxies. So here we are, in a place where we have been separated from the main flow of universal energies toward the Creator, in a place where we need to confirm for ourselves and the whole world on which side of the River of Life we choose to be. And our lives here are to prove that decision.

Eddy currents are created by weakness of the minds, lack of understanding of universal laws, lack of an accomplished spiritual development of those who lead societies and civilisations astray. Such people (or extraterrestrial entities) may think themselves highly developed, but that only proves their ignorance of higher levels of spiritual development. Greed and desire for power over other beings is definitely a proof of a “long-way-to-go” in terms of spiritual development. In fact, in the context of higher spiritual knowledge, attitudes like that are considered highly immature, childish and destructive. And we are witnessing the degree of destruction brought up upon our civilisation by spiritually primitive extraterrestrial races and people who work for them.

It is in the nature of our consciousness to finally see our mistakes for what they are. Process of evolution takes us through various stages of development of consciousness; going through ignorance, difficulties and strife, poverty, loneliness, pain, hatred and civilizational wars that never end - we finally come to a point of becoming very tired of being actors in the backwaters of the universe. We do not wish to continue living through painful scenarios spun for us by spiritually underdeveloped simpletons and their evil masters. We come to a point where we can no longer be threatened and blackmailed by them, because we awaken to the power within us. We realise that we can refuse to serve on the wrong side of the divide; we choose Life, Creator, and the fundamental truth that we all belong to each other, we belong to the cosmos and the universe is our place to be. Living in separation from the main stream of Life is too painful, is anti-life, is anti-love and is basically anti- everything we yearn for, everything that is represented by the Creator.

GOOD VERSUS EVIL

This is a message to evil doers: You can terrorise the weaker and innocent beings but you cannot bully God. If you haven't realised that yet, consider this seriously. If you think that you have special powers, or a great power or power over innocent sentient beings, who cannot defend themselves, this realisation should lead you to helping other less developed beings on their way toward self-realisation. This is the only course of action aligned with God's intentions for all of us, because returning to God, to the universal River of Life is just that – evolution, growth in understanding and realising the inclusiveness of ALL.

Human or non-human entities who cling to power or use their power against weaker species or individuals, whether they realise this or not, in the eyes of greater spiritual wisdom, play a universal kindergarten game, because they are still in kindergarten in terms of spiritual understanding. Why is it a kindergarten level? Because to understand all-inclusiveness and live this all-inclusiveness is much more difficult than just think that “I am (or we are) the only important kid on the block”. And although people or entities who think like that are abundant in this part of our universal home, that does not mean that they are on the right side of the argument, and especially if their argument is propped by weapons, violence, deceit, cruelty, and everything else negative we see happening on our planet. Violence always manifests on a weaker side of the debate.

From historical records of major spiritual wisdom traditions on our planet and even in contemporary life, we know that only very few individuals experienced pure power of God. But we can be assured that such individuals have lived and some are currently living on the planet today. However, knowledge of God as LIFE can be acquired through rational thinking, study, contemplation, through observation of the world around us, thinking about the perfect design of Nature, experiencing love of a child or love of a partner, contributing to the life of a community, joy of togetherness, peace and happiness that can only be found in God.

We are all travelling through the universe in the search of higher values, higher reasons for existence than just living day-in day-out in a “rat race”. That is where the evolution of our consciousness has brought us to. And we should be very grateful that we could rise above the mere survival requirements. Therefore, it is incumbent on us to organise life on the planet so that all people live in relative comfort and with a hope for the future. This is the God’s way, this is the all-inclusiveness. And here we must come together and use our collective wisdom, because what has been demonstrated on our planet to date is only weakness of corrupted minds, which is the opposite of spiritual wisdom.
